Editor's Message

"Green Years, 1963" is more than a mere chronicle of our quadrennial at Abington High School. Our aim is to present a publication which will not only display and summarize our finest accomplishments, but which will also preserve the spirit of the educative years—Green Years, the transition to maturity. We have sincerely attempted to create a yearbook which will become one of your most prized possessions.

Principal's Message

May I congratulate you of the class of 1963. Your future is still ahead. As you live in the present, have no regrets for what might have been. The important part of your lives is here and now.

We hear much about our living in a small world. Surely the recent successes of the astronauts make this even more of a reality. Yet, to face our responsibilities in this world or even in space, each of us must still grow in his own home, school, and community.

"To be what we are and to become what we are capable of becoming, is the only end of life," states Robert Louis Stevenson. Oliver Wendell Holmes tells us, "The great thing in this world is not so much where we are, but in what direction we are going." Ex-president Woodrow Wilson defines character as a by-product produced in the great manufacture of daily duty.

It has also been said that no matter how high a man rises he must have someone to look up to. Remember such great Americans as Benjamin Franklin, Alexander Hamilton, and Daniel Webster, whose accomplishments and service to mankind should always be an inspiration.

Have faith in yourself and your fellow men. Take positive action. You can not be down in the mouth and up on your toes at the same time. Stand tall and look toward the sun.

Somebody has said the world would be a lot better if everyone would spare a few minutes now and then to make the area surrounding him a little better. You have a great challenge, especially you the Class of 1963, to grow by working, serving, and ever looking forward and upward.

Roll With The Punches

This classic advice from boxing coaches is as old as the sport of fisticuffs. It is a scientifically sound admonition for, as we all know from our driving experience, there is much less impact when we hit something going our way than when we hit an object coming directly at us.

Today, our first lesson in life should be learning to adjust to a rapidly changing world. Accelerated courses in high school are a handy example of how education is adjusting to new world competition.

Changes are occurring in industry at a fast pace due to data processing, automation, and new methods of manufacture. People are suddenly finding it necessary to train for new jobs after a generation or more on their old jobs. Those who have learned to roll with the punches make the adjustment and learn a new job. Others join the ranks of the wailers and spend the remainder of their lives complaining about bad luck, capitalism, or poor government.

Perhaps the most important area for the practice of punch rolling is in the realm of personality. Executives with ulcers are examples of people who are so ardently pursuing success that they can bend in only one direction. Build a personality with resiliency. A yielding temperament that springs back with enough force can take a more favorable position than it held before it rolled with the punch. This is the most important fact of all—whenever you are hit—roll with the punch but come back to a better position.

Freshman Year

We, the highly spirited and grandly united Class of 1963, began our high school career as the elite of Abington Junior high. We elected to lead us through this most trying year Ted Morss, President, Lee Stoddard, Vice President, Terri St. Charles, Secretary, and Donna Smith, Treasurer. After the boys established early in the year the custom of hiding in one corner of the auditorium, the girls were seldom lucky enough to succeed in persuading one of the pack to dance. It seems that this custom has been continued to this day, judging from the success of the high school dances. Our Frosh team turned out to be the only one successful in completing an undefeated season, due largely to the efforts of its star player, "Igmoo." We were taught for three terms by Mr. Goode, a funny little man who handed many of us our first "Flying Zeros." The boys enjoyed a year of gym classes under the direction of the beloved Mr. Smith, clean at heart, but lacking teeth and a shower of his own. As Foolish Freshmen, we had the courage to protest the lunch situation by holding several successful strikes. Our most ambitious project was the sale of candy in round, tin, coffee cans to finance a buffet supper and final dance. After wiping the chicken fat off our hands, we were accosted by Don Parker and his bouncer, who unjustly accused one of our class of igniting the Firemen's bonfire a few days ahead of time.

Sophomore Year

Unlike the previous year, we began our Sophomore year as the underdogs of Abington High. We elected as officers David Wolcott, Roger Price, Terri St. Charles and Donna Smith. Several unfortunate incidences made this the last year of initiatory showers. The girls wore themselves out by the frequent and large pajama parties that often ended up in the local laundromat. This was the year of pleasing personalities. We only had to endure one frightening year of Mr. Parson's Latin classes. A gentleman named Salvatore delighted us with his well-organized math club and his new theory of plane geometry. About Christmastime, Cyrus the Terrible Turtle, our renowned biology teacher, had a serious run-in with Roman Dick over contrasting theories of discipline. We also remember Mr. Contardi for his sailcloth suit, Castro dummy, and student council autocracy. Mr. Wojnar's fifth period study was a source of displeasure to two fellow students. All of Pat Doherty's romances with upperclassmen in this study surprisingly fell through within a week. More than once Greg Coad's briefcase found its way to the lawn forty feet below. The Star Spangled Banner strangely became the theme song of the Winter Carnival. The Blue Knights provided more appropriate entertainment at our own Sophomore Hop, which took in a grand total of two-fifty. Our class outing was well attended by the senior boys and the few sophomores willing to foot-it the fifteen miles from Abington to Plymouth.

Junior Year

Junior officers were Bob Creutz, Linda Frazier, Debbie Furse and Donna Smith. The discovery of Brockton boys by a few of our girls proved exciting enough to last the entire year. Though our class meetings were disgustingly chaotic, we managed to make the sale of Abington hats the most profitable project Abington High had ever seen. A surly character named Anderson showed some of us the seamy side of Boston. On the way home from our field trip, the expressway became littered with dying goldfish discarded by our now glassy-eyed chaperone. By February, our girls, now desperate, were willing to stoop low enough to trap the Junior boys for prom dates. A rash of appropriate parties solved the problems for many. Though decorating for "Bali-H'ai" was an escape from classes, the task proved to be overwhelming, but it was completed with artistry never before seen here. The post-prom dinner at Kimball's was followed by a sleepy party at MacDonald's and a torturous breakfast at Whiting's. The Executive Board of the Junior Class did not survive the tuxedo scandal. Mrs. Foote's field trip to Salem had serious consequences: Abington High School was banned forever at the House of Seven Gables, the submarine, and the Salem branch of Howard Johnson's. All attempts at a class outing were futile, but four couples and Mike Menelly managed to reach Markgren's cottage down the Cape. The Senior's haircuts administered at the last minute resulted in the Juniors' revenge on the Sophomores: several were thrown out the boys' room window.

Senior Year

On the eve of our return to school as Supreme Seniors, the high school was aptly decorated with multicolored boudoir tissue by a group of our girls. Mr. Deveber's delightful intrusion did not halt the girls' progress. We elected to lead us in this "Year of the Lion," David Wolcott, Roger Price, Debbie Furse and, surprisingly enough, Donna Smith. Our disunity had now reached its height. Randolph spoiled our undefeated football record, but nevertheless we became Southeastern Conference and Class C Champs. The large turnout for Chorus resulted in the origin of our class cry, "Eddieeee, Eddieeee!" Increased clique-consciousness resulted in near fist-fights in the Girls' Room. The advent of free-speaking Mr. Sullivan and the persistence of our beloved Jubalee led to lowered marks. For some unknown reason, the traditional Winter Carnival became a thing of the past. Due to our weeks of hard work under the direction of the terrible tyrant Mrs. Gleason, The Nitwits was more successful than anyone expected. The post-play party at Whiting's was less successful than anyone expected.

We are now eagerly looking forward to all the rewarding events that will end our high school years.

Class Prophecy

United for the first time, the class of 1963 is holding its tenth reunion. The success of our former class outings has indicated the class's enthusiasm for beach parties, so we are holding the reunion on the Bay of Pigs beach in Cuba, our fifty-first state.

Lest she miss out on something, DOROTHY JOHNSTONE, who has just published her autobiography, Call Me DeeDee, arrives punctually, only to have EDWARD WHITAKER rush up and ask her for her autograph. She is surprised to find that a fire has already been built and home economists LINDA WALKER, GAIL SMITH, CAROLE JACOB and KATHY DEVINE are busy preparing a barbeque. Their labors are alleviated somewhat by the arrival of MIKE MENELLY, who has brought the pizzas. DENNY FOWLER is roasting PAT DOHERTY, famous flea trainer, instead of a marshmallow.

Some distance down the beach we see a gray cloud rapidly advancing toward the fire. When it comes closer we discover that it is the exhaust from the hotrods of EDWARD SISK, RONNY BROWN, DOUGLAS MACPHAIL, WAYNE WARD, JOHN SWEENEY, RONNY PANEPINTO, and RUSSEL PRATT—dragging down the beach. Coming up in their rear is BOBBY MILES on his go-cart. Coming up in his rear is WAYNE WOODWARD on his bicycle.

FRAN PETRELL, ANNE McIVER, and PEGGY GRADY are standing by, notebooks and pens in hand, waiting to record the events of the reunion for Record American editor DIANE FRAME, who has just arrived in her pink beach buggy.

The reunion is livened up by the arrival of two overloaded taxis. Driver ED BANCROFT hops out from one and opens the door for passengers JOHN DOHERTY, TOM ANDERSON, MIKE McDONOUGH, and—PHIL DAMON, who immediately climbs a tree so he can “walk hand in hand with nature.” SUSAN MOSSMAN, driver of the other taxi, opens the door for her passengers JUDY FISHER, SUSAN KANE, LAURA ANDERSON, BARBARA NEWBURG, and DIANE DOMBROWSKI, who have just come from Brockton and bring word from TOM BUGDEN and AL DAVIS that they will be a few hours late because they are stuck in the Brockton traffic.

Panic arises when JANE RANKIN gets stung by a bee while beachcombing with PAM ROWE, now a blond, and ELAINE KELLEY, the world's first woman tank driver. Doc GEORGE WHITING rushes up with his trusty hypo, followed by his corps of nurses BEVERLY ALLSOPP, LORRAINE STODDARD, ANNE COLE, and NANCY SHURTLEFF.

All attention is drawn toward the surf by the screams of Mr. Rourke, who is trying to water ski from the back of GAIL FRUZZETTI's souped-up motor boat. On the edge of the water we spy DOUG POOLE, reeling in TED MORSS, famous marine biologist, who was in hot pursuit of a lovely mermaid until Doug hooked the seat of his bathing suit. Nearby, MARGIE FRAZIER, alias “Froggy” is vainly calling to her “cousin” LINDA FRAZIER to bring a jar of flies out to her lily pad. We finally silenced MARSHA DONOVAN by submerging her—but those bubbles on the surface of the water prove that the task is an impossible one. MARGIE FELIX is chasing after beach boys DAVID WOLCOTT, KENNY MacDONALD, and RICHIE MARKGREN. It seems that she wants a ride in their buggy.

The crowd cheers as LEE STODDARD and his wife TERRI dock their yacht the “Teenage Idol” (Formerly the “Honey Fitz”) and condescend to join the merrymaking.

We discover that we have some very successful working girls in our midsts. NANCY BELTRAMINI has found herself unable to resist the lure of D'Amato's and is now manager of the store. She has as her co-workers DONNA PEPE, MARY McELROY and ANNE DENNISON, who are unable to resist the chance of getting some publicity. Also a success in his own field is JIMMY MURRAY, who has married a girl named Catherine and has opened up a chain of dance studios.

We hear a lot of commotion over in the dunes. ROBERT SMITH, JIM PERKINS, ROBERT PARKER, TOM MacDONALD, ROBERT CARROLL, BRIAN FADER and DICKIE FARLEY are trying to play cards, but are interrupted by the cries of LOUISE HAYDEN—"Watch out below! I'm going to jump!" and by ROBERTA HATHAWAY, who is giggling behind a nearby bush. "MO" McDONOUGH has finally learned to drive Richie's Volkswagen and is displaying her new-found talent by plowing in and out of the dunes. She barely misses DEBBIE FURSE, who is arm wrestling with STEVE LONSDALE and is consistently beating him.

Walking down the beach is MIKE MAL—functioning as usual. He notices the envy in the eyes of fashion models DONNA RANSOM, MARIE HIGGINS, and LINDA JACKSON when they discover that beatnik artist DONNA SMITH is getting all the attention they feel they deserve.

Back at the fire, DORELL GLEASON, MARTHA MONGEAU and JOHN WINIEWICZ are entertaining the rest of the group with their vocal talents, accompanied by the bongo drums of ROGER PRICE and JOHN BARRON, who have just returned from a world's tour. CLAUDIA BENJAMIN is showing BETSY DEROCHEA and MARYLOU TURNER the picture of her honeymoon trip to Yellowstone National Park, while SUSAN SOMERS is showing pictures of her six-foot six, five year old son, Bruce Junior, to the unbelieving CARLENE MANSON. BOB CREUTZ, decked out in a leopard skin, is flashing his muscles at the girls. PAULA SWEDAS is flirting with every boy she sees except JOE RUDOLPH, who is trying to get a date with every girl he sees.

ALAN OLSON can't understand why his roller skates won't work on the beach. Poor Alan, he has sand in his ball bearings. PETE MAGOUN is having difficulty tuning Russia in on his portable ham radio. CELE SOUTHWELL crawls out of a paper cup singing "Dixie." KATHY DONOVAN, FRAN MARLEY and CHRIS BUTLER sneak off to the girls' room for a "butt."

SUSAN GARDNER, personal secretary to Barry Goldwater, and BILL GORMAN, who is an investigator for the House Un-American Activities Committee, are comparing political notes with JOE SHEA, who is delivering newspapers from the back of his donkey cart. The headlines of his papers gives us more information about some of the members of our class. RICHARD EASTON has stolen a patent from a man named Morey and sold it to Cuban school officials. BILL ANTILLA has posed for his millionth pumpkin. MARJORY DOWD has painted an exact replica of the Mona Lisa. JIMMY DAVID has been made manager of the Boston Red Sox. ANNE BURKE, the original "MM-girl," has donated her entire wardrobe to CHERYL SMITH's charitable organization for underprivileged children, one of which is DAVID LINDQUIST.

As DICKIE LATHROP rides up on his favorite horse, he is startled to see someone high up in a palm tree. Don't be alarmed, Dick—it may look like a monkey, but it is only LENNIE MORGAN, with his foot in his mouth as usual.

SUSAN HALL and JERRY VILLENEUVE, world-renowned "hair cutters," question multi-millionaires CHARLIE GLINIEWICZ and TAB MEEKER on how they made their millions. Charlie tells them that he made his money on the suckers that bought his "greasy kid stuff" sold in miniature brief cases. Tab tells them that he made his loot by the production of horror movies.

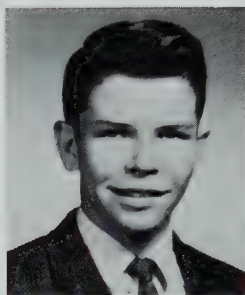

As JOHN LIBBY, PAUL McNEIL, and ROY FOWLER build castles in the sand, PEGGY MORGAN and MARY DOWLING, who are writing a history of the reunion, walk by and accidentally knock them over. As soon as they build them up again, BRENDA JOHNSON and MARY JANE KEENAN, who have become physicists under the shining example of their old physics teacher, knock them over again with their slide rules.

The end of the day's festivities is heralded by the arrival of JIMMY DURFEE in his battered old truck. He is the only one concerned with picking up the beach and will prevent our class from gaining the nickname, "litterbug."

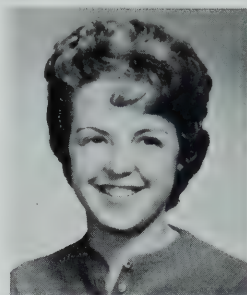

The sky is a bright rosy red in the direction of the setting sun. On further investigation, we realize however, that the glow is not the setting sun at all, but CARL SYLVESTER's blushing face as he recites poetry left over from the class play.

Class Will

We, the Class of 1963, being of relatively sound mind and body, having completed four grueling years of high school, having set for the underclassmen the best example of unity ever available, and having done our best for Abington High School in the way of sports, social functions, and scholarship, do hereby attest this to be our last will and testament.

Article I—To our devoted school cafeteria, which has served us the type of meals that mother used to make for four long years, we leave a year's supply of its favorite staple, Gravy Train.

Article II—The first period physics class leaves Mr. Sullivan a date with Big Alice at the Palace, all expenses paid. They feel that this will be the perfect gift in return for all the entertainment he has given them throughout the year.

Article III—We leave Mr. Divoll slightly pink.

Article IV—We leave Mr. Comeau a badly needed can of Red Cap Refresh-R.

Article V—To Mr. Herbert DeVeber, our tried and true principal, we leave a chair and whip autographed by Clyde Beatty.

Article VI—Ceil Southwell leaves her stature to Bridget Cahill.

Article VII—Fran Petrell and Anne McIver leave the office to get along without them somehow.

Article VIII—We leave Mr. Hartwell a twenty gallon hat. It will probably be too small.

Article IX—Each member of the class leaves his class ring and a large teething ring to Mrs. Lee so she will have enough security to last the rest of her life.

Article X—Nancy Beltramini and Marsha Donovan leave the second period lunch in peace and quiet.

Article XI—The French IV class leaves Mrs. Rosen a recipe for home-made fudgies, so she won't have to buy them for her little pets.

Article XII—Eddie Bancroft leaves his nice legs to some undeserving sophomore boy.

Article XIII—Linda Frazier leaves all her underclassmen friends with no ride.

Article XIV—The Girls' basketball team leaves Miss Crooks with fond memories of the Tech Tourney.

Article XV—The Literary Staff of the Yearbook leaves Ann Burke's house in a shambles from the many meetings held there.

Article XVI—We leave Mr. Murray Volume I of How to Tame a Lion Tamer.

Article XVII—We leave Mrs. Ferguson a podium and megaphone so that everyone will realize her importance.

Article XVIII—The senior girls leave the sophomore girls some of their poise and grace.

Article XIX—The “Nitwits” leave all future members of class plays (that won’t be half as good as ours) “Momma” Gleason and her temper.

Article XX—We leave Anne McSweeney a full-paid course in “How to Control Your Emotions.”

Article XXI—The senior boys leave the sophomore girls to the junior boys.

Article XXII—Roger Price leaves his beautiful car to Mr. Paolini, who needs a new one badly.

Article XXIII—Joe Shea leaves the Driver-Ed car in one piece.

Article XXIV—We leave Donna Shaw a comb and a brush set with a 9’ by 5’ hand mirror to match.

Article XXV—The football team leaves Mr. Paster with memories of an almost undefeated team.

Article XXVI—The famous, fabulous and popular Richard Markgren leaves all the girls with nothing to drool over, and leaves the boys with the knowledge that they can never be his equal.

Article XXVII—Margie Felix leaves the boys with cars in peace.

Article XXVIII—The Yearbook Staff leaves the Abhis Staff an example of how to put out a good publication.

Article XXIX—We leave the basketball team a lot of luck—they’re sure going to need it.

Article XXX—We leave Lenny Morgan a year’s supply of Command so he can have girls in the palm of his hand.

Article XXXI—We leave the new high school to all future classes. Too bad they can’t be as good as us.

Article XXXII—Finally we, Old Abington High School’s last graduating class, leave these halls with much reluctance and many memories.

In witness thereof, we have here unto subscribed our names and affixed our seal.

Witnesses: Leroy Stoddard
Therese St. Charles
